Understanding the Armed Con?ict Survey 2019

The armed con?ict survey 2019 is an annual report that tracks and analyzes ongoing con?icts worldwide, examining factors such as the number of active con?icts, intensity levels, key actors involved, and the humanitarian impact. This survey often draws from multiple sources, including governments, international organizations, NGOs, and con?ict monitoring groups, to present a well-rounded picture of the global security landscape.

What Sets the 2019 Survey Apart?

Unlike previous years, the 2019 edition highlights several signi?cant shifts in global con?ict patterns. For instance, while some longstanding wars continued with little change, new con?icts emerged, and others escalated or de-escalated. This ?uidity underscores the importance of continuous monitoring to grasp the ever-changing realities on the ground. Additionally, the 2019 survey places a particular focus on the role of non-state actors, cyber warfare, and proxy battles, re?ecting the modern dimensions of armed con?ict beyond traditional state-on-state wars. These insights help policymakers and analysts better understand the nuances shaping contemporary security challenges.

Key Findings from the Armed Con?ict Survey 2019

When exploring the armed con?ict survey 2019, several critical themes emerge that paint a complex picture of global violence and instability.

1. Number and Intensity of Con?icts

The survey reported a total of over 50 active con?icts worldwide in 2019, ranging from low-intensity skirmishes to full-scale civil wars. Notably, the number of high-intensity con?icts?de?ned by a threshold of battle-related deaths?remained alarmingly high, indicating that despite international e?orts, some wars persist with devastating human costs.

2. Geographical Distribution of Con?ict

Certain regions stood out as particularly a?ected by armed violence. The Middle East and parts of Africa, such as the Sahel region, saw some of the most intense ?ghting. Con?icts in Syria, Yemen, and Libya continued to dominate headlines, while in Africa, insurgencies and ethnic violence in countries like the Democratic Republic of Congo and South Sudan contributed to ongoing instability.

3. Humanitarian and Civilian Impact

One of the survey?s most sobering insights revolves around the humanitarian crisis caused by these con?icts. The 2019 data highlights millions of displaced people, widespread destruction of infrastructure, and a staggering number of civilian casualties. The survey also underscores how prolonged con?icts exacerbate food insecurity, healthcare collapse, and economic downturns in a?ected regions.

The Role of Non-State Actors and Proxy Wars

Non-State Armed Groups

In 2019, the survey emphasized the growing in?uence of non-state actors such as militias, insurgent groups, and terrorist organizations. These entities often operate outside traditional military hierarchies, making con?icts harder to resolve. Groups like ISIS in the Middle East and various rebel factions in Africa posed signi?cant challenges to state sovereignty and peace initiatives.

Proxy Con?icts and International Involvement

Another critical trend highlighted in the armed con?ict survey 2019 is the prevalence of proxy wars, where regional or global powers support di?erent sides in a con?ict to advance their strategic interests without direct confrontation. This dynamic was especially visible in the Middle East, where countries like Iran, Saudi Arabia, Russia, and the United States played roles in fueling or mediating con?icts.

Technological Evolution and Cyber Warfare

The 2019 survey also acknowledges the rising importance of cyber warfare as an emerging battle?eld in modern con?icts. While physical violence remains central, cyber attacks targeting critical infrastructure, communication networks, and government systems have become tools of disruption and intimidation.

This shift represents a new frontier in armed con?ict, where state and non-state actors alike deploy technology to gain strategic advantages. Understanding this trend is vital for future con?ict prevention and response strategies.

Implications for Peacebuilding and Con?ict Resolution

Reading through the armed con?ict survey 2019, it becomes evident that addressing modern warfare requires multifaceted approaches. Traditional military solutions are often insu?cient when con?icts are fueled by deep-rooted ethnic tensions, political grievances, and external in?uences.

Strategies Highlighted in the Survey

Inclusive Dialogue: Encouraging negotiations that involve all stakeholders,

including marginalized groups and non-state actors.

Strengthening Institutions: Building resilient governance structures that can

reports dedicated to evaluating the global landscape of armed con?icts. Produced by the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS), this survey provides in-depth insights into ongoing con?icts, their causes, dynamics, and the shifting geopolitical environment in?uencing warfare worldwide. In a year marked by complex international tensions and evolving patterns of violence, the 2019 edition o?ers a critical lens through which policymakers, academics, and security analysts can understand the state of global security.

Understanding the Scope of the Armed Con?ict Survey 2019

The armed con?ict survey 2019 meticulously cataloged con?icts ranging from interstate wars to insurgencies and civil wars, o?ering a nuanced picture of the multifaceted nature of modern warfare. Unlike traditional military analyses that focus solely on battle?eld movements or troop deployments, this survey integrates political, economic, and social factors that contribute to con?ict persistence or resolution.

One of the notable features of the 2019 survey is its detailed classi?cation of con?icts by intensity?from full-scale wars to low-level skirmishes?allowing readers to gauge not only the geographical spread of violence but also its intensity and potential for escalation. This multi-dimensional approach re?ects the evolving nature of con?ict, where hybrid warfare, cyberattacks, and proxy engagements increasingly blur the lines between peace and war.

Key Findings and Trends in Global Con?ict

The armed con?ict survey 2019 highlighted several critical trends that shaped the security environment during that period:

Persistence of Protracted Con?icts: Con?icts in Syria, Yemen, and Afghanistan

continued to dominate headlines due to their prolonged duration and high human cost. The report underscored the di?culties in achieving political settlements amid fragmented opposition groups and foreign interventions.

Rise of Non-State Actors: The increased prominence of armed non-state groups

such as ISIS-a?liated factions, militias, and insurgents was a central theme. These actors complicate peace e?orts and challenge traditional military responses.

Geopolitical Rivalries Fueling Proxy Wars: The survey emphasized how

regional powers, including Iran, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, and Russia, engaged indirectly in con?icts across the Middle East and Africa, thereby intensifying local disputes and prolonging instability.

Technological and Cyber Dimensions: Although not the primary focus, the report acknowledged the growing use of cyber warfare tactics and information operations as integral elements of modern con?icts.

Regional Spotlight: Con?icts by Continent

The armed con?ict survey 2019 provides a regional breakdown that reveals distinct patterns and challenges:

Middle East and North Africa: This region remained the epicenter of violent

con?ict, with the Syrian civil war continuing as the deadliest and most complex crisis. Yemen?s humanitarian catastrophe, driven by the Saudi-led coalition?s intervention and Houthi insurgency, was another focal point. Libya?s fragile post-

Gadda? environment also saw renewed clashes among various militias and political factions.

Sub-Saharan Africa: Con?icts in the Sahel, particularly in Mali and Burkina Faso,

2.

escalated due to jihadist insurgencies and weak state control. Nigeria grappled with

Boko Haram and separatist tensions, while the Democratic Republic of Congo faced ongoing violence fueled by ethnic militias.

Asia-Paci?c: Afghanistan?s stalemate between the Taliban and government forces

persisted, complicated by U.S.-Taliban negotiations. Additionally, border skirmishes between India and Pakistan in Kashmir underscored the volatility of longstanding territorial disputes.

Europe: The armed con?ict survey 2019 also touched on the con?ict in eastern

4.

Ukraine, where hostilities between Ukrainian forces and Russian-backed separatists

Analytical Perspectives on the Armed Con?ict Survey 2019

Beyond cataloging con?icts, the armed con?ict survey 2019 o?ers analytical frameworks that help interpret the data and understand broader security implications.

The Role of International Intervention

The survey critically examines the impact of external military interventions, both state-led and multilateral, on con?ict trajectories. In Syria, international actors like Russia and the United States signi?cantly in?uenced the balance of power, often complicating peace negotiations. Similarly, the Saudi-led coalition?s involvement in Yemen was scrutinized for its contribution to the humanitarian crisis and prolonged ?ghting.

Analysts observe that while intervention can shift military dynamics, it rarely resolves underlying political grievances. In many cases, interventions have led to unintended consequences, such as empowering extremist factions or fragmenting opposition groups.

Challenges in Con?ict Resolution and Peacebuilding

The 2019 survey underscores the persistent challenges in transitioning from con?ict to peace. Fragmented rebel groups, contested governance, and external patronage often obstruct negotiations. Moreover, the survey highlights the importance of addressing root causes such as economic deprivation, ethnic tensions, and political exclusion.

One of the nuanced observations is the increasing di?culty in implementing traditional peacekeeping operations in environments where non-state actors dominate and state sovereignty is contested. This calls for innovative approaches that blend diplomacy, development, and security sector reforms.

Technological Evolution and Warfare

While the armed con?ict survey 2019 primarily focuses on conventional armed con?icts, it acknowledges the rising signi?cance of new technologies. Cyber warfare, drones, and information campaigns have become integral to con?ict strategies, enabling actors to project power asymmetrically and target civilian infrastructure without direct combat. This technological evolution demands adaptive policy responses and highlights the blurred boundaries between war and peace in the digital age.

Implications for Future Security and Policy Making

The insights from the armed con?ict survey 2019 provide valuable considerations for governments, international organizations, and security practitioners.

Holistic Con?ict Management: Addressing armed con?icts requires integrated

strategies that combine military, diplomatic, humanitarian, and development e?orts.

Focus on Local Dynamics: Sustainable peace hinges on understanding local

grievances and power structures rather than imposing external solutions.

Managing Proxy Con?icts: Reducing the in?uence of external actors in proxy

wars is crucial to de-escalating regional tensions.

Adapting to New Warfare Forms: Policymakers must develop frameworks to counter cyber threats and regulate the use of emerging military technologies.

The armed con?ict survey 2019 remains an indispensable resource for those seeking to grasp the complexities of modern warfare. By blending empirical data with analytical depth, it paints a sobering yet informative portrait of a world where con?icts persist amid shifting power dynamics and technological change. As the global community confronts these challenges, such detailed assessments will continue to shape more e?ective and nuanced responses to armed violence.
